$100 Prize for Queen of Third District Show

Girls from all 18 counties in the district are eligible to compete for Queen of the Third District Livestock Show, the fairest of them all to be chosen on the opening night of the show, Monday, September 23.

Preliminary contests will be scheduled in the various counties and the county winners will be finalists here September 23. Entry blanks for contestants and instructions for local sponsors may be obtained by writing Pod Rogers, Box 98, Hope.

Cash prizes for the finalists here the night of September 23 will be: First prize $100, Second prize $50, Third prize $25. Girls entering the competition must be between the ages of 16 through 24, as of September 1. Each competitor must reside in the county she represents. She must be single — never married or divorced. Competitors will be judged both in bathing suits and formal evening gowns — but there won't be any talent test.

Salary of New Defense Chief Is Fabulous

CINCINNATI (AP) — Neil McElroy gets $285,000 a year for bossing 30,000 employees of Procter & Gamble Co., of which he is president. They are scattered all over the world.

And, if he wins Senate approval as President Eisenhower's nominee to succeed Charles E. Wilson as secretary of defense, he'll be getting $25,000 a year as "boss" of perhaps four million, similarly scattered.

But the sacrifice, both of salary and stock holdings, is strictly in character, close friends said. Over many years, McElroy has devoted at least a third of his time to voluntary public service.

Yesterday he termed his nomination "an opportunity to serve in the area of being a good citizen."

Several years ago, after Cincinnati's Community Chest had failed four times in succession to attain its multimillion-dollar goal, McElroy was approached to take over chairmanship for the drive.

"I don't like to be associated with failure," he bluntly told a committee in waiting. "If I take this assignment, we'll make it go."

Doctor Unable to Return to Testify

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Dr. George W. Rodkey said today that he will be unable to appear before a Legislative Council committee which will look into affairs of the state Tuberculosis Sanatorium.

The former medical director of the Booneville institution said by telephone from Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, that he cannot accept an invitation from Perry County Rep. Paul Van Dalsen to appear before the committee tomorrow.

"I do not have sufficient savings at this point to finance a flight to Little Rock although I would like to appear," Dr. Rodkey said by telephone. "In addition to the short notice and lack of funds, I go to a new job as associate medical director of the Edgewood Tuberculosis Sanatorium in Spokane, Wash., on Wednesday."

British Ground Troops in Action

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — The first ground shots of the three-week-end Oman rebellion were reported fired today at the desert village of Rada.

An official announcement said the assault from troops of the Sultan of Muscat and Oman, advancing with the support of British ground and air units, brought the quick surrender of the village of Rada.

The Sultan's forces captured the advance on Fijla, the outpost three miles from the major rebel stronghold of Nizwa. Nizwa, in the central Oman desert, is the headquarters of the rebellious Imam of Oman.

Nothing Unusual, 7th Set of Twins

PINE RIDGE, S. D. (AP) — Birth of the seventh set of twins in 14 years to the James Big Crows was so routine that their father didn't even bother to go to the hospital to pace a corridor.

"It wasn't any surprise; the doctor said it properly would be double again," said Mrs. Marcella Big Crow. "You sort of get used to it after a while."

Big Crow, a temporarily unemployed farmhand, was philosophical about Tuesday's arrival of the new twins, who round out a family of 15 children.

He was concerned most about finding room for them in the two-room shack where the family lives at the edge of the Pine Ridge Indian reservation.

American Women More Electrically Minded

NEW YORK (AP) — The U. S. housewife is becoming more and more electrically minded — or at least electrically-minded. Did you know that about one out of every 10 American women now uses an electric shaver?

House Approval Sought on Rights Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic leader drove today for early Senate-house agreement on a civil rights compromise close to the measure overwhelmingly approved by the Senate last night.

There was growing belief they would succeed, as major civil rights groups and supporters made it plain they would rather have a modest first step — as they labeled the Senate bill — than nothing at all.

There was much locky and maneuvering ahead, however, with Republicans and Southern Democrats holding the key to the outcome — as they have in the past.

The Senate, by a resounding majority of 72-18, turned a historic corner at 8:15 p. m. EDT by passing its first civil rights measure in 82 years.

All of the no votes were cast by hard-core members of the Dixie bloc fighting the measure, plus Liberal Democratic Sen. Wayne Morse (Ore.), who called the bill a sham bearing "little more than the title."

Volting for it was a crushing coalition of 43 Republicans and 29 Democrats.

Basically a right-to-vote bill shorn of stiffer features by Dixie Democrats and "moderate" northerners of both parties, it was sent to the House without the confidential-expected Southern filibuster.

In fact, five Southerners voted for it. Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson and his fellow-Texas Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough, both of Tennessee's Democrats, Estes Kefauver and Albert Gore, and Sen. George A. Smathers of Florida.

Johnson, who had labored tirelessly for five weeks to tone down the bill and avert filibuster, called it "effective."

He said it seeks "to solve the problem of 1957 and not to reopen the wounds of 1865."

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland (Calif.), who led the fight for President Eisenhower's stiffer bill, said the Senate changes had greatly reduced its effectiveness. But he termed the measure "some advance in civil rights" and expressed hope its voting rights injunction section would be "clarified and improved" before final passage.

Conway Picked for Children's Colony

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Conway has been chosen as the home of the proposed Arkansas Children's Colony.

The Colony board picked a 318-acre tract of land at Conway in a special meeting here yesterday. A resolution naming the site was unanimously approved by the six board members who were present. One member was absent.

Cost of the tract has been estimated at between $95,000 and $100,000. The Colony board will have to put up no more than the $50,000 appropriated by the 1957 Legislature for buying a site and the Conway Corp., will make up the difference.

Presbyterians Plan Special Services

Services will be resumed at the First Presbyterian Church on Sunday, August 11. Dr. Lawrence has returned from his vacation and will conduct the regular morning worship service, at which time the subject will be "Afflicting the Comfortable." The choir will sing "Spirit of God" with a solo part by Miss Paula Haley.

HONOLULU (AP) — Air Force C-97 with 65 passengers today, was limping back to Hawaii with two of its four engines out. The Air Force said the plane may be forced to ditch in the Pacific.

The Air Force said the pilot radiated that he had enough fuel to remain airborne for five hours and four minutes.

The Air Force said the pilot indicated he could make the trip within five hours, landing at Hilo with dry tanks.

Air sea rescue personnel, however, expressed doubt whether the gas supply would hold out.

The Coast Guard and Air Force dispatched planes to intercept and escort the Military Air Transportation Service plane.

AHC to Pay Off as Usual Up to Sept. 15

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Highway Commission has announced it will continue to pay contractors doing Highway Department work in full until Sept. 15.

This was decided at a commission meeting here yesterday.

The commission had planned to start making partial payments to contractors next Thursday but improvements in its financial situation will allow it to continue to make full payments for another month.

Another commission meeting is planned in two weeks so the Highway Department's monetary picture can be reviewed again.

Last July 10 the commission revealed it would have to make partial payments to contractors because its financial balance was too low to meet all commitments from July to the end of October.

The Highway Department will have to go without construction maintenance revenues during these four months because the income is earmarked to pay the highway bonded debt and meet obligations to counties.

Recently the commission met with contractors to tell them it could pay only 35 or 75 per cent of their estimates starting Aug. 15.

However, at yesterday's meeting the commission agreed to send a letter to all contractors explaining the improvement in finances.

The letter points out that the Highway Department's balance on July 1 was $8,268,220 and on Aug. 1 it was $6,794,106 — considerably more than had been anticipated.

"This better situation," the letter says, "has in part been made possible by the receiving of federal aid reimbursements more promptly than before. Also we have cut out maintenance expenditures as low as we possibly could."

Rackets Leader Dio Hits a Photographer

The called the photographer an S.E.B. in the spelled out version. The blow did not knock down the photographer, and he did not swing back.

Dio threw the punch at Tretick after the mobster was ordered out of the hearing room by Senate Rackets Committee Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), because of the hubbub which arose when he strode in.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Racketeer Johnny Dio goes before Senate Intelligence Committee today for questioning on charges that he and Teamsters boss James R. Hoffa joined in a grab for control of labor in the New York area.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark.) of the Senate Rackets Committee contends there was a "corrupt alliance" between Dio and Hoffa, and that as a result both union members and employers were victimized.

McClellan alleges the alliance gave Hoffa what he called "stranglehold power" over organized labor in New York, and swelled Dio's reputed million-dollar-a-year income from labor and other rackets.

Dio, under indictment in the local blinding of labor columnist Victor Riesel, was paroled from jail in New York long enough to testify before the committee. He is being held to await sentence on shakedown conspiracy charges.

Now the Midwest boss of the giant Teamsters Union, Hoffa is considered the front runner for the union's presidency. Dave Beck, the present Teamsters president, is stepping out after refusing to tell the committee whether he misappropriated hundreds of thousands of dollars of Teamster funds.

Robert F. Kennedy, the committee's chief counsel, said others who may testify today are Abe Brier, Sidney Hodes and Nat Gordon. These three have been Trying to Clean Up a Problem

BENTON (UP) — County Judge Charles O. Smith is trying to clean up a problem. He has plenty of clutter — that's the problem.

Saline County has a 3300 gallon oversupply of soap, and the judge is trying to sell the stuff, contained in 60 drums each holding 55 gallons of the solution.

The county grand jury recommended last year the soap be sold or given away, and the judge had been trying to get it off of his hands ever since. So far, he has disposed of only one barrel.

Fellow Russian Key Witness Against Abel

NEW YORK (UP) — A fellow Russian espionage agent who defected to the West shaped up today as the key witness against Soviet intelligence Col. Rudolf Ivanovich Abel, indicted yesterday as the most important Red spy ever seized in the United States.

Ironically, the potential witness, Reimo Hayhanen, was named as a co-conspirator in the indictment against Abel who posed in this country as a down-and-out artist and photographer for nine years while heading a Soviet spy ring. Hayhanen, who spent six years in the U. S.

As a trained spy, was flown here earlier this week and testified yesterday before the Brooklyn grand jury that indicted Abel on three counts of espionage.

Abel, a mild-mannered, nondescript-appearing man was pictured in the indictment as the mastermind of a spy network that transmitted American defense secrets to Moscow by radio and courier. Specifically, Abel, a Russian national, was charged with conspiring to transmit to Russia documents, maps, photographs and other information "relating to the national defense" of the U. S.

Abel, convicted in 1950, could be executed under the so-called Rosenberg law, which sent Julius and Ethel Rosenberg to the electric chair in 1953 for spying for Russia.

The balding, blue-eyed Abel, who entered the U. S. from Canada in 1948, was expected to be returned here in a day or two from Edinburgh, Tex., where he was held without bail in the Hidalgo county jail after declining bond. The Soviet intelligence officer was turned over to the FBI yesterday by Immigration officials who were about to deport him for entering

Cotton Crop of 11.8 Million Bales Forecast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department today forecast this year's government controlled cotton crop at 11,897,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight.

This estimate is the first of the year and compares with 13,310,000 harvested last year and 13,660,000 for the ten-year (1946-55) average.

"The crop was grown under rigid marketing quotas and planting allotments and also under the soil bank program offering payments to farmers for underplanting allotments. These programs are designed to help reduce surpluses."

There was market speculation that the crop estimate would help from the basis for a boost in the government price support rate under the flexible price support system. An announcement of a possible increase was expected later today or tomorrow.

The condition of the crop, the indicated acre yield and production, respectively, by states included:

Missouri 36 per cent of normal; 308 pounds per acre and production 245,000 bales.

Steel Official Defends Price Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Roger M. Blough, board chairman of United States Steel Corp., told senators today it was "sheer economic superstition" to contend the recent steel price rise would touch off a new round of inflation.

Blough, first witness in a new congressional inquiry into the steel industry and its pricing policies, said that "viewed in its true perspective, the price of steel is amazingly low."

"Steel is not only the cheapest, by far, of all the common materials," he said, "but with surprisingly few exceptions, it is also cheaper — pound for pound — than almost anything else you can buy."

"To put it in the plainest possible terms, therefore, let me just say that the so-called 'high price of steel' is, in my opinion, another myth, pure and simple."

Blough appeared before the Senate Antitrust subcommittee. The steel hearings at this time were prompted by the $6-a-ton price rise for the metal, which began effective July 1. This was announced first by U. S. Steel, the industry's biggest producer. Other steel producers followed suit.

Dynamite Shed Explosion Is Seen for Miles

BOSTON (AP) — A construction project shed containing dynamite cap detonators exploded early today, damaging homes over a mile square area and endangering thousands of persons.

Despite the terrific force of the pre-dawn blast, there were no reports of serious injury. Minor cuts from flying glass appeared to be the extent of personal injuries.

The explosion blew debris, including steel pipes and wooden beams, over a wide area.

Broken windows and fallen plaster were reported in hundreds of residences in the South Boston, Dorchester and Hyde Park districts of Boston, and in Milton, Dedham, Hull and Squantum.

Contract for State College Building

JONESBORO (UP) — A Paragould, Ark., contractor has been awarded a contract to build a $16,000 cattle show pavilion at Arkansas State College.

The Earl Kirk Construction Co. was apparent low bidder for erection of the 60 by 120 foot structure, which will replace the old barn, which was destroyed by a windstorm last spring.

The Bordeaux section of France, noted for its wine, is bustling its buttons in pride because a survey found it had, proportionate to its population, the largest number of centenarians in the country.

In one parish alone—St. Julien—50 couples had been wed 50 years or more.

Marie Roubert, who was 104, cheered the wine producers by attributing her longevity to the fact that for over a century her diet had included red wine—and stails.

Jean Monard, at 99, who already had nine children, married a girl of 18, who in due time bore the proud man his 10th offspring.

When he and his wife travel, A. D. Brinkerhoff of Bloomfield, N. J., likes to note down in his diary any odd or humorous signs they encounter.

Here is his favorite, posted in a tavern in rural Arizona:

"Oh, I know the answer to that," replied the child. "The chicken came first."

"How do you figure that?" inquired the mother.

Her daughter giggled. "I can imagine God making a chicken—but can you imagine God laying an egg?"

named in testimony as Dio henchmen who allegedly infiltrated the old AFL Union Auto Workers in New York in the early 1950s when Dio was a power in the union's affairs.

There has been testimony that they then took command of "phantom" Teamster locals, allegedly formed in New York with Hoffa's help. These Teamster locals allegedly had officers but no members until Dio switched dues payers into them, from other labor groups he controlled.

During yesterday's proceedings, six alleged Dio followers all refused to talk about him or their unions.

Unification of German Spiked by Khrushchev

By JOSEPH B. FLEMING
BERLIN (UP) — Soviet Communist Party Leaders Nikita S. Khrushchev in a bellicose major policy speech today closed the door on German reunification and said war would bring atomic devastation to the United States.

Khrushchev had only warnings and reproaches for the West in a two-hour speech to the East German parliament.

He boasted that the United States is within range of "present" nuclear rockets and cautioned the London disarmament conference to remember this before rejecting Soviet proposals.

He compared West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer to Hitler.

He accused the West of blocking disarmament and piling to convert all of Germany into an aggressive NATO base.

He offered again to pull all Soviet troops out of Eastern Europe if the United States withdraws its troops to America. But he said the United States would not dare accept this.

He flatly rejected "so-called free elections" for German reunification, and endorsed instead the East German plan calling for East-West German talks and a loose confederation of the two German states.

This plan has been rejected by the West many times but Khrushchev said it was the "only solution."

His speech was considered the harshest since the Kremlin shake-up at the end of June.

"With the present development of rocket weapons on nation is safe from attack," he said. "U.S. statesmen should think about this."

"Distance will not protect any nation from the effects of atomic and hydrogen bombs. Those states should think about this who reject disarmament agreements."

Khrushchev's blistering remarks on Soviet weapon development were an old tune, but he offered a new variation in linking rocket progress to the London disarmament talks.

One Russian demand in London is for a total ban on nuclear weapons, which the West rejects as unenforceable.

Khrushchev, speaking for two hours to East Germany's power-les puppet parliament, repeated earlier Soviet statements that no country is safe at this stage of rocket development. He said, "In any war today large areas of the world would be turned into desert."

the U. S. illegally when the indictment was returned.

Able was arrested in New York June 21 on a charge of illegal entry and placed in an alien detention camp at McAllen, Tex. In his room, agents found a short wave radio set, a hollowed-out pencil and several cryptic notes. A later search uncovered a sea- and radio, cameras, and photographic equipment, including microfilm. The agents found maps of several cities and other urban centers, including New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore.

Schoendienst Difference in Braves' Team

MILWAUKEE (UP) Birdie Tabbetts, whose lackluster Cincinnati Redlegs lost their 10th game in 12 starts against Milwaukee last night, says Red Schoendienst is "the difference" on the National League leading Braves.

"This is the best balanced ball club Milwaukee has had since I've been in the league," the Redlegs' skipper said after the Braves' 12-2 walkaway, "and Schoendienst is the difference."

Tabbets is not alone in his estimation of the veteran second baseman's worth to the Braves.

The Braves acquired the 34-year-old infielder, who always seems to be in the right place at the right time, from the Giants on June 15. To get him they gave up Bobby Thomson, Danny O'Connell and Ray Crone.

In 46 games in a Milwaukee uniform, the freckle-faced native of Germantown, Ill., has batted .317—five points higher than his overall average for the entire season. He has committed only two errors in 289 chances for a fielding percentage of .993. Overall Red is "the best fielding second baseman in the league with an average of .989."

"We all look up to him," said third baseman Eddie Mathews.

"He's the old pro. He settles you down and gives you confidence. As far as making the plays, the fellow's fantastic. His value to this club is immeasurable."

"They bought him for pennant insurance," Tabbetts said recently, "and he's been doing all anyone could ask of him."

Pros Favored All-Star Game Friday Night

By ED SAINSBURY
CHICAGO (UP) —The College All Star coaches never have sent a team against one tutored by the New York Giants' Jim Lee Howell, but none of them are concerned about a "first time" tomorrow night.

Howell will direct the Giants against the collegians, directed by a pro veteran, Curly Lambeau, for the third time, in the second appearance of the New Yorkers in the annual clash, scheduled for the 24th time.

The record favored the professionals, since the collegians have won only seven games and tied two of the 23 already played. Howell, too, may have something new to try out against the college boys, most of them soon to be pro rookies.

But Lambeau has confidence that Howell couldn't show his squad anything for which they'll be unprepared.

His chief assistant, Hank Anderson, former Chicago Bears' coach who handles the All Star defense, agreed that the Giants should have nothing new.

"He uses standard offenses similar to those the Giants used under Steve Owen," he said, "and I don't think we'll have any difficulty."

Both Lambeau and Anderson coached teams frequently against the Giants when they were directed by Owen.

Anderson revealed that his team is geared for switching pass defenses each time a change is warranted by the Giants offensive possibilities. Also, he said, "I imagine our line will get their pass set once in a while. They'll keep the heat on."

It was likely the collegians would try a number of tosses to their halfbacks, unless the Giants defense reacts quickly, because such players as Jon Arnett, Southern California, Billy Barnes, Wake Forest, Jim Brown, Michigan, Jim Rodoley, central Michigan, and Abe Woodson, Illinois, could use their speed for plenty of yardage in certain green situations.

Firemen Rescue Child From Chimney

BAY CITY, Mich. — For a tense half hour yesterday, firemen took apart a portion of a home foundation.

Then they reached in and tenderly removed 3-year-old Glenda McPhee to safety from an abandoned chimney shaft which might have been a death trap.

Today, she was reported little the worse from the experience, though having suffered shock.

Earlier in the afternoon, Glenda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen McPhee, stepped into the shaft in the attic of their home and fell 18 feet between the walls of the house and into the basement wedding tightly in an 8-by-12 inch opening.

Three companies of firemen, working with a pick, took the foundation apart brick by brick.

The firemen worked with the utmost care to avoid a collapse of bricks, or otherwise injuring the girl.

The United States averages 175,000 forest fires a year.

DOROTHY DIX

Off Again, on Again Man
Bad Influence for Family

Dear Dorothy Dix: I always thought that only nitwits wrote to columnist for advice, but now that I have a son story of my own, I realize how important an outsider's objective view can be.

Lance was a drinker before I married him. I didn't expect to achieve an overnight reformation, but I was convinced that a happy home atmosphere would keep him out of taverns. His drinking bouts have been cut down to about one a week at which time he gets very violent, terrifies the children (we have three) and often hits me.

Otherwise he's a sweet, gentle person. During his off spells we quarrel about money (we're in considerable debt due to his days off), about the children (the claims I'm not strict enough), and about my family and anything else.

My attitude has been one of continual forgiveness. I've felt that being lenient with him was the tack to take and I over look everything. Once an incident is finished, no matter how unpleasant it was, I don't refer to it. I don't like quarrels and will do anything to avoid one; he knows it.

The kids are old enough to realize that since I let their father get away with anything, they can try the same tricks. I have no control over anything, yet am responsible if anything goes wrong.

I'm at my rope's end. Please help. I don't like to see my son become a drunk like his father.

AUDREY D.

Dear Audrey: You are certainly to be commended for your admirable effort to keep a family together, in the face of every opposition and no co-operation it's practically impossible that your labors would be in vain. Since your husband is an angel when sober, the only possible solution would be to keep him in that condition. For help on that point, get in touch with an Al-Anon Family Group. Their mailing address is P O Box 1475, Grand Central Annex, New York 17, N. Y.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm in love with a girl who is engaged to someone else. Her fiancé is in service and we've been dating for some time now. I've gone out with other girls — but she's the one I want. I love her but the ring on her left hand tells me she belongs to someone else. Should I let this stop me or should I continue dating her?

CHUCK

Dear Chuck: The girl, too, should realize that the ring on her left hand means something. She's disloyal to her fiancé, and using you as a filler-in until he comes back — neither one of which is a particularly admirable action. Give her a lesson in fidelity. Tell her — no more dating until she breaks the engagement.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My boy friend is 17, but he doesn't act it. Often when we're out in company he acts so childish he embarrasses me. Should I say something? I hate to hurt his feelings, and besides, I couldn't stand seeing him with another girl.

JUANITA

Dear Juanita: In other words, you aren't sure you want him; but you're very sure you don't want anyone else to have him. Why not let him make some other girl uncomfortable? A boy isn't worth dating unless he is a good companion.

Dear Dorothy Dix: The boy I dated last semester gave me his

August is the month when the hot summer sun beams down on Arkansas' vast cotton fields and the cotton bolls burst open to expose the snow-white fiber that means so much to the State's economy. CHAPTER XXI

Lillian looked at me and shook her head. "I don't have to ask about you, Pike. I can see. And it doesn't matter who did it. Just why."

"Nev Hawk," I said. "But, ma'am, some day I'll get back at him."

"Of course you will," she said. "Or the marshal will."

Blanchard said, "Mrs. Jethro, what happened to Pike was bad. Maybe you can blame me for part of it, all right. But think of what he did. He got to Pete Dorsey and got him away, almost. Now we know for sure he's alive, or was, last night."

"Pike, you did that?"

I nodded, feeling prouder than I had any right to.

Blanchard said, "I know Dan was here last night. Did he say anything that might help us?"

Lillian sighed. "How far must I go, Mr. Blanchard?"

"As far as necessary."

"But, marshal, you see what happened to Pike. Surely—"

"I don't hear Pike complaining."

"Pike wouldn't. It's not manly to complain. Is it, marshal? Then think of what happened in town last night. A killing in the street. Can you understand, Mr. Blanchard, what that represents in this town?"

"All right," Blanchard said. "Tell me one thing. Do you want Pete Dorsey to die?"

"Of course not."

"There are two people here who can help me, Pike. And you. There may be a few more who would help but I don't have time to find them. If Pike hadn't helped, Dorsey might be dead now. I might be dead, too. Pike gave me time and a reason to wait. Except for Pike, I might have had to do something wild that would have spoiled it all."

"Suppose I don't tell you any more."

"Then I may have to ride out and deal with the Clements as best I can."

Lillian turned away.

Blanchard said, "You can't dodge it, Lillian. You're the most important person in this thing. You can't change that. Pike is in it, too, and the whole town. There's no way out now, for any of us. You have to see that."

I wanted to help. Blanchard and I was sure he was right but I knew the only reason Lillian was holding back at all was Dick. She was afraid he'd be hurt.

Blanchard said, "Lillian, I'll take care of Dick. And you, too."

Lillian turned, looked at Dick, then at Blanchard. "Like you took care of Pike?"

"All right," he said, his voice thin and tight. "Maybe that was owed to me. Pike could have avoided that last night. But the man who did it will have to answer for it yet."

"Is it Dorsey you want to save? Or your reputation?"

Blanchard rose. His hands balled into fists and he held them against his legs. Color went out of his face. He stared at Lillian. "Sure, I want to save my reputation. But I don't want to save it just because of pride or vanity. It helps me do my job. The law is nothing without the right feeling about it. If my reputation goes, something goes from the law."

Lillian looked at the floor. "I—I suppose that's true."

"It's true. Maybe my reputation is keeping Pete Dorsey alive. Maybe my reputation kept Pike alive last night. Maybe the Clements are afraid of what I'll do if they kill Dorsey. Maybe this evening or tomorrow, Pete Dorsey will come walking into town, free, because of my reputation."

"Perhaps," Lillian said.

"Sure, I think the reputation is important. I killed a man last night because of it."

"You killed...?"

"Si Hanna didn't have to die. He was only feeling his oats. I could have talked him out of it. I've done it before, with men worse than Hanna. A man is a fool not to back down from killing if he can."

"Then why...?"

"Because this town wouldn't let me back down! I had to prove what I can do, right here, to protect myself and you and Pike and Dorsey!"

Blanchard looked like a tired man. Then, soft, he said, "If the town had been on my side before last night, Hanna could have lived. I hate killing. I swear it."

Lillian turned, slow, and looked into the bedroom.

Lillian said, "Dan was here last night. He talked about Cole, said Cole would come to see me. Cole doesn't want them to kill Dorsey, not right away. Dan didn't say that, exactly. But I think it's what he meant. Cole wants them to wait until the buffalo come. I don't know why."

Blanchard turned and nodded. "Soft," he said. "Anything else, Lillian?"

No. If he comes again, I'll let you know."

Blanchard said, "Much obliged. Now I've got to prove what I say."

Blanchard opened the door. I got up and went to it. Blanchard looked at Lillian. He said, "I swear, Lillian, if you or Dick get hurt in any way... well, they'll face me some day for it. I hope you can get a measure of peace from that."

Blanchard let the door swing shut, clapped on his hat and stepped down off the porch. There was a man walking in the street. He turned onto the path up to Lillian's house and I saw his city clothes and the yellow hair under his hat.

I knew right away it was Cole Fethroe.

Says Only Live TV Shows Have Real Music

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Buddy Bregman, who will be musical director of the Eddie Fisher Show when it comes on NBC-TV next season, blew in from Hollywood the other day and said:

"I'll never do another TV show from New York. I don't like the climate of New York and I can't play tennis here every day."

"Live TV has the only good music on television, but even in live shows the sound is imperfect. The problem is a physical one in which a singer has to be too close to the band. I hope I can lick some of the problems."

"In filmed TV you have the worst sounding music of all time. That's chiefly because it's canned, except on one or two shows. The man who is hurrying filmed TV music is James C. Petrillo (President of the American Federation of Musicians) because he's put five per cent of the cost of production fee on each filmed show that uses live music."

A spokesman for the American Federation of Musicians in New York said the tax goes to the Music Performance Trust Fund of the recording and transcription industry and is administered wholly by an industry trustee. The spokesman said Petrillo had not yet been shown another formula that will aid the cause of musicians as effectively.

Bregman feels that filmed TV needs composers who would study their scripts and watch them being filmed and then compose or select appropriate live music.

Bregman, a conductor, composer and arranger who is considered one of the outstanding young talents of the musical world, feels that live TV has done much to encourage good music.

At the age of 26 Bregman is the artist and repertory head of Verve Records and has just completed scoring the music for Jerry Lewis's first independent film, "The Delicate Delinquent."

This winds up the season for me. I'm off to Europe for a couple of months. Presumably I'll show up again in October.

Hi-way Group in Session Wednesday

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Highway Commission planned a special meeting this afternoon to examine its financial affairs and decide whether it can continue to pay contractors in full after Aug. 15.

An unexpected federal reimbursement of 1 1/2 million dollars last week as made the commission's monetary picture considerably brighter.

Last month the commission revealed it did not have enough money to satisfy all of its obligation from July 1 to the end of October. During this 4-month period, highway revenues will have to be used to pay the highway debt and fulfill commitments to counties.

After the 1 1/2 million dollars came in, Highway Director Herbert Eldridge said the financial outlook was considerably better.

He added that the Highway Department hoped to keep paying contractors in full as long as possible.

The commission had expected to reduce payments to contractors to 65 or 75 per cent on Aug. 15.

The 1 1/2 million dollar windfall was a reimbursement for construction jobs which were eligible for federal aid. The commission hopes to get another $750,000 in a similar reimbursement within a few weeks.

Although the federal money will help temporarily, Eldridge has emphasized that it will not solve the Highway Department's long-range fiscal problems.

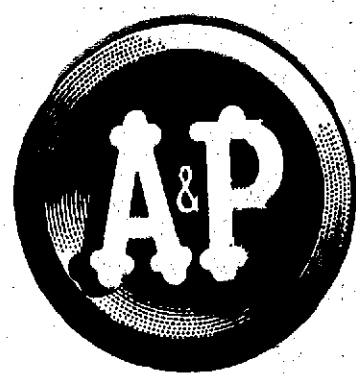

The commission has declared that it will require 15 million dollars in additional funds during the next two years if it is to match all the federal funds available.

A special session of the Legislature has been proposed to get the Highway Department out of its money plight but Gov. Orval Faubus had said a definite plan will have to be prepared before he will consider calling a session.

The Union Terminal in Washington, D. C., services seven railroads. It was built in 1907 at a cost of 2 1/4 million dollars.

11th Series of Atomic Tests Fired

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (UP) — The Atomic Energy Commission unsparingly fired the 11th in its summer series of nuclear devices today while pacifists conducted a prayer vigil 30 miles away.

The device was triggered at 6:25 a.m. PDT from its suspension equipment hanging from a 67-foot diameter balloon at a height of approximately 1,500 feet above Yucca Flat. Its yield was estimated as nominal, probably equal to 20,000 tons of TNT.

Troops from Ft. Lewis, Wash., scheduled to take part in maneuvers later in the series, at the observation point some 10 miles from ground zero in full battle dress. Also at the view point were 30 Canadian soldiers from the Queen's Own Rifles, of Calgary, Canada.

Just before hot time the balloon holding the device was clearly visible in the dawn-breaking sky.

The blast violently shook observers on News Nob and an unmanned Navy blimp drifting in the sky 5 miles from ground zero burst into a blinding light as the shot was detonated.

AEC spokesmen said the gas bag had been equipped with magnesium flares triggered to go off simultaneously with the blast for photographic effects taken in the test.

However, the shock wave smashed the front end of the blimp and it shuddered to the ground where it poised like a missile with its nose buried in the desert floor. Smoke from the flare rose skyward from the wreckage.

A smoke ring-shaped cloud drifted upward and fused together into the familiar shape of a mushroom.

An area several miles in diameter on the ground was obscured in dust sucked up off the Nevada desert floor after the blast, forming the stem of the mushroom.

The flash was plainly visible in Salt Lake City, Utah, and Los Angeles.

Atom-watchers in San Francisco described it as "one of the biggest flashes seen here."

The fireball maintained its eye-blinking brilliance for more than 10 seconds and glowed in the crisp morning skies for more than half a minute.

The stem of the mushroom separated from its cap and drifted westward while the salmon-tinted top portion appeared to climb straight upward. Aircraft assigned to the test darted through the sky, conducting radiation and cloud-stracking experiments.

Some 30 miles away a group of week trip to the west coast. They visited Old Mexico, Hollywood, Yellowstone National Park, Carlsbad Caverns, Grand Canyon and other points of interest.

demonstrators conducted a prayer session against nuclear testing outside the chain-gates of the AEC headquarters at Mercury, Nev.

The group conducted sessions yesterday and 11 of the demonstrators were arrested and charged with trespassing when they walked into the restricted area.

The so-called "atom-boppers" pleaded innocent and all were found guilty. They were released on a disposition of sentence was suspended for a year.

Doctors say the left hand pockets of their suits wear out first. That's where they keep their stop watch to check pulse reactions.

Big Ted Comes to See His Namesake

BALTIMORE (U) — Oscar (Digger) Abbott, a Boston Red Sox roster in general and a Ted Williams booster in particular, once hoped his son would be a baseball player—a sort of a chip of the splendid splitter.

When the youngster was born seven years ago, he was named Ted Williams Abbott. But not much later Abbott, of Deal Island, Md., got some bad news. Little Ted had a heart deformity and an operation was his only chance—a slim one.

Ed Nichols, sports editor of the Times at nearby Salisbury learned about all this and went into action.

So little Ted, scheduled for operation next month, met big Ted last night.

The fabulous Boston Red Sox outfielder greeted him in the dugout before the game with the Baltimore Orioles, took him in and introduced his teammates and Manager Mike Hargrett.

The pair had a sort of man-to-man conversation, much of it spoken too softly for bystanders to hear.

Conley in Form as Milwaukee Gains on Cards

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

It took a long time, but string bean Gene Conley finally got a hit around to helping the Milwaukee Braves toward some of that World Series lettuce.

The lanky six-foot, eight-inch Conley, a distinct disappointment last year and anything but a world beater the first half of this season, has suddenly blossomed forth with seven victories in his last eight decisions to give the Braves what they've been looking for all along — a fourth dependable starter.

Conley's fine seven-hit effort against Cincinnati last night gave the Braves a 12-2 victory that stretched their National League lead to a 1½ game. The triumph was Milwaukee's 10th in the last 12 games and Conley, who won only two games up until the all-star break, has won four of those 10.

The Chicago Cubs, on their long, east wing streak of the season, made it five in a row when they defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 5-1, and the Giants beat the Dodgers, 8-5 at Jersey City, N. J., in the only other scheduled National League contest.

The Chicago White Sox, who still entertain some hopes of catching the Yankee in the American League race, cut the distance between them to six games with a 7-0 decision over Kansas City. Washington nipped the Yanks, 3-2; Detroit defeated Cleveland, 4-1; and the Red Sox topped the Orioles, 5-3, in 11 innings.

Home runs by Walt Moryn, Bob Speaker and Dale Long paced the Cubs to their triumph over the Cards. Rookie Dick Drot, picked up his 10th victory although he needed a neat bit of relief pitching by Dick Littlefield in the eighth.

Don Newcombe of the Dodgers had a 3-3 lead going into the ninth inning when he ran into a three-run homer by the Cardinals' Staney Clem. Clem took over, and the Giants added two more runs when Ray Jablonski singled with the bases full. Marv Grissom pitched one hit ball for three innings in relief of Johnny Antonelli to gain the victory.

Jim Wilson of the White Sox hurled his first shutout and 12th victory, holding the Athletics off two hits. The White Sox routed the Athletics, 10-0, in a game that was a key. McDermott, with a six-run burst in the third inning, Earl Torgeson and Jim Rivera each delivered two-run singles.

Tom Sturdivant of the Yankees had a two-hit shutout and a 1-0 lead against Washington in the ninth inning but Eddie Yost jarred him for a two-run homer. Sturdivant gave up two more hits before Bob Grim took over.

Mickey Mantle blasted his 30th homer off Tru Cleveland, in the bottom of the ninth and Hank Bauer homered in the first inning. Bud Beyer, second of three Senator pitchers, was the winner.

Southpaw Billy Hoelt, checked the Indians on six hits as the Tigers clinched the victory with a three-run outburst off rookie John Gray in the first inning. A walk, doubles by Jim Shell and Ray Boone and Al Kaline's single gave Detroit its three runs in the first inning.

Ted Williams' hustle on the base paths figured in Boston's 11-inning win over the Orioles.

Williams, who had driven in Boston's first two runs with a double in the first inning, singled with one out in the 11th and slid into second when center fielder Jim Busby fumbled the ball. Mickey Vernon followed with a slow roller down the first base line and when Baltimore pitcher Connie Johnson fell fielding Bob Boyd's throw, Williams hot-footed it home all the way from second.

Singles by Jackie Jensen, Billy Consolo and Sammy White added two more runs. Frank Sullivan pitched a six-hitter for his 10th victory.

CHelsea, Mass. (U) — An automobile collision yesterday saved four children from possible injury.

Richard J. Grzelezyk, 20, was at the wheel of his car when he spotted a driverless auto with four children in it rolling down a hill.

He maneuvered in front of the runaway vehicle and permitted it to strike the rear of his car, thus preventing it from smashing into a building at the bottom of the hill.

Dante Abbene, 32, said he had left his car at the curb with his children in it while he made a brief visit.

McElroy Moves Next Door to Defense Chief

WASHINGTON (INS) — Neil H. McElroy today moved into a Pentagon office next to Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson, virtually removing all doubts that he is preparing to succeed Wilson in the Cabinet post.

Defense officials refused to comment on McElroy's activities, but conceded that the Cincinnati industrialist was at work in a office that shares an entrance lobby with Wilson's suite and also is connected by a private hallway.

One source said that McElroy, president of Procter and Gamble Co., was studying problems he would face when and if he receives the formal appointment to succeed Wilson as defense secretary.

The 52-year-old soap manufacturer flew to Washington Monday from Cincinnati, and lunched with Wilson for two hours in the secretary's private office immediately after his arrival.

McElroy, for whom a packet of Defense Department documents was being prepared for his later study, was expected to leave Washington later in the day to fly back to Cincinnati.

Among the documents, it was learned, is a long-range analysis written by Wilson of the accomplishments under his administration and the goals for defense that he and his associates have projected into the future.

A spokesman for McElroy said earlier that the Cincinnati industrialist is being actively considered as Wilson's successor, but that "no conclusions" had been reached.

This source said that McElroy and Wilson discussed during their Monday conference "problems that would be connected with a move of this kind."

Ike Admits Failure of Program

WASHINGTON (INS) President Eisenhower said today he would be the first to admit he hasn't done as well as he might have in helping to put his legislative program through Congress.

But Mr. Eisenhower again expounded on his method of dealing with Capitol Hill, while conceding it might be wrong politically. He just doesn't believe in using threats and swinging clubs, he said.

Several questions at the President's news conference implied criticism of the support he has given his own program. One reporter wanted to know why he didn't tell congressmen if they didn't agree with him and give him their backing.

Smiling faintly, Mr. Eisenhower recalled he has said that he gives varying degrees of support to Republican candidates at election time. That was as close as he came to indicating that he ever approved of using threats to help get his way on Capitol Hill.
